

Shrimp & Shiitake Dumplings

with Sautéed Bok Choy & Soy Dipping Sauce

These delectable dumplings are packed full of delicious umami flavor. We're making our filling from a combination of shrimp, shiitake mushrooms, Chinese black bean sauce (made from fermented black soybeans) and aromatics. (After rehydrating the dried mushrooms for the filling, we're using a bit of the infused water to finish cooking our dumplings.) A fragrant dipping sauce balances these savory flavors with the sweet, citrusy combination of soy glaze and Meyer lemon (famed for its mellow acidity).

Recipe #1018

Prepare the ingredients:

Wash and dry the fresh produce. In a heatproof bowl, combine the mushrooms and $\frac{3}{4}$ cup of hot water; let stand for at least 10 minutes. Stack the wrappers on a plate; cover with a damp paper towel. Peel and mince the garlic and shallot. Thinly slice the garlic chives. Cut off and discard the root ends of the bok choy; halve crosswise and separate the leaves. Quarter and deseed the lemon. Finely chop the shrimp. Thoroughly wash your knife, hands and cutting board after handling the shrimp.

Make the filling:

Reserving the water, transfer the mushrooms to a cutting board and finely chop. In a large pan (nonstick, if you have one), heat 2 teaspoons of olive oil on medium-high until hot. Add the garlic, shallot and half the garlic chives; season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring frequently, 30 seconds to 1 minute, or until fragrant. Add the chopped mushrooms; cook, stirring occasionally, 1 to 2 minutes, or until softened. Add the chopped shrimp; season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring occasionally, 1 to 2 minutes, or until slightly opaque. Stir in the vinegar, black bean sauce and half the furikake. Cook, stirring frequently, 30 seconds to 1 minute, or until the shrimp is cooked through. Transfer to a bowl; season with salt and pepper to taste. Rinse and wipe out the pan.

Assemble the dumplings:

Fill a small bowl with lukewarm water. Place the wrappers on a work surface. Spoon about 1 tablespoon of the filling into the center of each wrapper (you will have extra filling). Using your fingers, working 1 at a time, moisten the edges of the wrappers with water; fold in half over the filling. Press down on the edges with a fork to seal. Transfer to a plate; cover with a damp paper towel.

Cook the dumplings:

In the same pan, heat 1 tablespoon of olive oil on medium-high until hot. Add the dumplings; cook 1 to 3 minutes on the first side, or until browned. Flip; add the reserved mushroom water to the pan. (Be careful, as the liquid may splatter.) Increase the heat to high; cook 2 to 3 minutes, or until browned and the water has cooked off. Transfer to a plate; set aside in a warm place. Wipe out the pan.

Cook the bok choy:

In the same pan, heat 2 teaspoons of olive oil on medium-high until hot. Add the bok choy; season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring occasionally, 1 to 2 minutes, or until wilted. Add 2 tablespoons of water; cook, stirring occasionally, 1 to 2 minutes, or until cooked off. Turn off the heat; season with salt and pepper to taste.

Make the dipping sauce & plate your dish:

In a bowl, combine the soy glaze, remaining garlic chives and the juice of 2 lemon wedges. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Divide the cooked bok choy, remaining filling and cooked dumplings between 2 dishes. Garnish with the remaining furikake. Serve with the remaining lemon wedges, if you'd like. Enjoy!
